

members of the Newberry Twisters perform a routine.

MARK NANCE/Sun-Gazette

Nearly 300 people attend complex dedication, start of CAPPAs hoops league

(From Page B-1)

grounds is one of the authority's properties.

"CAPPAs came to us last July for help," Turner said. "We started putting it together a few months ago. I'm happy to have the community participating. Now the field is used every day."

The basketball league's season started with two 7-to 9-year-old division games on Tuesday evening.

Rodney Anderson has been coaching CAPPAs basketball for four years, and he said he enjoys interacting with the kids.

"This league gives them something to do," he said. "They keep coming back. I know some kids who were 6 and then before you know it they're 15."

old nephew in his first year playing for CAPPAs on the Sixers team.

"He really likes basketball and music," Jackson said. "He played with kids from our church."

Pat McCormick is a parent of two playing for the first time on the South Williamsport team.

"They just love playing basketball," McCormick said. "It doesn't matter where."